PROCLAMATION!

POULTRY SALE NOTICE.

Whereas it has been suggested by several parties interested that WEDNESDAY and THURSDAY, THE 29th and 30th DAYS OF NOVEMBER, 1916, would be suitable days for a poultry fair and sale for the Napanee district, and

Whereas the Council of the Town of Napanee thinks it proper that said sale should be held on said days, and

Whereas in order that the producers may have an opportunity of coming into contact with all the buyers in open competition, it has been arranged to have all poultry brought to the market place in the Town of Napanee on said days when the several buyers will be present to examine the poultry and buy the same, as provided by the Market By-Law,

And whereas it has been further provided that the Chief of Police of the Town of Napanee shall be at liberty to examine all scales upon which poultry sold at said sale is weighed.

I do therefore in my official capacity as Mayor of the Town of Napanee proclaim that Wednesday and Thursday, the 29th and 30th days of November, 1916, be poultry days in the Town of Napanee, and do call upon all producers and buyers to meet in the open market place in the said Town of Napanee for the purpose of buying and selling of poultry.

G. F. RUTTAN,
 Mayor.

TOWN COUNCIL.

Council Chamber, November 6th, 1916.

Council met in regular session on Monday evening, Mayor G. F. Kuttan in the chair.

Present—Reeve Osborne, and Coun- cillors Denison, Paul, Graham, Stacey, and Robinson.

The minutes of the last regular and special meetings were read and con- firmed.

A communication was read from U. M. Wilson enclosing an account of $15.00 The charges in regard to the prosecutions under the Ontario Tem- perance Act are payable by the town by reason of the by-law passed ap- pointing the chief constable as the officer to have charge of the prosecu- tion of all offenses against the Act in Napanee, and the corporation has re- ceived the fines in the first two cases. In the third case the defendant was unable to pay the fine and is now in jail.

The communication and account was referred to the Finance Committee for a report.

Another communication was read from U. M. Wilson enclosing certificate that the selectors of jurors for the municipality have performed the ser- vices required of them, under the Ju- rors' Act, and this certificate will en- title them to payment for their ser- vices. The selectors of jurors were Mayor Kuttan, W. A. Grange, clerk, and Geo. A. Cliffe, assessor, and the fee is $4.00 each.

On motion the communication was received and the clerk instructed to place upon the pay sheet the amounts above referred to.

A communication was received from The Wm. Davies Co. stating that in the event of the town connecting a hydrant on the proposed six inch line, they would guarantee to pay two years' hydrant rental.

Ordered filed.

The question of increasing the grant to the Public Library was discussed at considerable length. The grant provided for in the estimates is $150, and the Library Board is asking for $300. According to the Managing Committee of the Library it is an absolute necessity that they receive a grant of $300 from the council, other- wise the Library will have to be closed for the winter.

Moved by Councillor Robinson and Reeve Osborne, that the $150, as pro- vided for in the estimates be paid to the Library Board at once. In the meantime the members of the council will talk the matter over with the Library Board. Carried.

Mr. Daniel Loucks and a consider- able number of the ratepayers of Clarksville, petitioned the council for an electric light on the corner, one block north of William street, near the property of Mr. Loucks. Referred to the Fire Water and

1,000 CARS A DAY NOT ENOUGH.

Overland

$ 8 9 0
Roadster $870

f. o. b. Toronto

A luxurious small car — like most ideals — was difficult of attainment.

And to attain it and still keep the price lower than any other complete automobile had ever been sold for, meant quantity production on a scale never before attempted in cars of this class.

We increased our capacity to 1000 cars a day — more than double any previous output of cars of this class.

And the result is this comfortable small car, beautiful and complete, for $890.

Never before has any complete auto- mobile been sold at anywhere near so low a price.

And never before has any small, light, economical car been anywhere near so comfortable or so beautiful.

But so completely have we realized a popular ideal that 1,000 cars a day is not going to supply the demand.

If you order yours today, it will not be a day to soon to avoid delay.

See the Overland dealer at once.

Haig is Co-operating in Blows That Are Being at the Torton Lines, and Progress is Being Made in the Stormy Weather.

Nov. 7.—In the fighting at Somme, which was conducted by the French Monmouths were ousted from the northern part of the Vanat Wood and 600 of the prisoners into the hands of the British.

The British started an attempt Sunday night to recover which they had just lost. The furious counter-attack regained a portion of the about the Butte de War. It had been taken by the British east of Les Boeufs, British right had advanced were secured by the British. This was completed the Germans heavily bombarded the British front between the Somme to-day.

On the other hand, despite the stormy weather Douglas Haig's forces made several points along the line, some progress and many prisoners. In the center, the British progressed on a front of several yards, securing the high ground in the neighborhood of the Salencourt.

Powerful blows delivered enabled the armies of the British and Haig to register an advance of weeks in their pocket Bapaume.

On their offensive in the morning, the French have been occupying the entire village and also the town of Damme, situated a mile to the north of Vaux.

The advances were preceded by a futile German attack at the strong trench system by the French on Wednesday the edge of St. Pierre.

The British also reformed counter-attack by a force of Le Transloy at the edge of Gueudecourt which made the starting point of attacks on Le Transloy. British statement gives an indication of the larger number of planes that have been down recently; Sunday, for Berlin reports taking nine, winds prevailing blow the lines far over the German and make it hard for them to be pursued.

ITALIANS HOLD GAINS

New Front East of Gorizia Now Firmly Established.

Offensive Recently Launched Against Austrians on the Carso Plateau Has Met With Great Success—The Losses to the Teutons Are Estimated to Have Been Over 40,000 Men.

LONDON, Nov. 7.—The Italians are firmly established on the new line which they have captured on the front between a point east of Gorizia and the sea, and they are engaged in completing the consolidation of their positions. Here and there along their line they attacked points jutting out as salients and broke them off so as to straighten their line. Fifty prisoners were taken in these operations.

The Italians are now proceeding with the siege of Castagnievizza, which the Austrians had strongly fortified with machine guns and other implements of resistance. This place is being violently bombarded by the attackers, and it is expected that it will be stormed by bombing squads in a short time.

The Austrians lost 41,000 men during the first two days of the new Italian offensive, according to wireless reports from Rome. Of these, in round figures, 10,000 were killed, twice that number wounded and 10,062 captured. General Bordevitch, of the Austrian command, after having been forced to withdraw three divisions, has asked for reinforcements, according to these despatches.

The Italians Saturday pressed forward in the direction of the Wippach valley, advancing more than a kilometre, taking 553 prisoners. They also have practically invested Castagnievizza, on the Carso.

"Since the offensive on the Italian front began, on August 6," says Sunday's Rome War Office report, "we have taken in all 40,365 prisoners, including 1,008 officers."

Despatches from the front state that the fighting on the Carso plateau is assuming the most desperate character. Desperate fighting marked the Italian capture of Veliki Kribov, which the Austrians stubbornly defended for hours, although their fortifications and trenches had been wrecked. The Austrians when they saw the Italian flag on the crest of the height launched several violent counter-attacks, all of which were repulsed. The largest number of prisoners taken at any one point was made possible. The Austrian losses were heavy. Their dead and wounded choked the trenches.

Mount Pecinka was carried by the bayonet. The Austrians had been sure that the Italians would not be able to climb the steep slopes.

King Victor Emmanuel and the Duke of Aosta were with the troops throughout the day, shouting encouragement every time the infantry charged.

The correspondent at the front for the Idea Nazionale says he saw the King, overjoyed, congratulating several section commanders.

The Rome Tribuna's correspondent at the front wires that at the end of the first day of fighting the Austrians evacuated their entire first line and fell back to the second, which "is destined to fall like the first." The morale of the Italian troops he de-

THE ALLIES IN GREECE.

Further Efforts Are Being Made to Clear Up the Situation.

LONDON, Nov. 7.—Reuter's Athens correspondent says it is reported from Patras that the French flag was hoisted Sunday on the Greek light flotilla at Keratsini.

The Greek Government last week refused to permit the entente to use this flotilla for patrol purposes on the ground that it would be equivalent to a departure from neutrality.

The entente powers have loaned the sum of 5,000,000 francs ($1,000,000) to the provisional government at Salonica, according to an Athens despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company. The despatch says that the Athens and Ionian Bank has received an order to advance a preliminary sum of this amount to the Venizelist officials and charge it to the account of the entente powers.

A Paris despatch says: The French Minister of war, General Roques, arrived at Salonica Monday morning, the war office announced.

General Plerro Roques recently left France "on an important mission." He may be putting the final touches on negotiations with Greece, or may be conferring with Sarraill as to a further Macedonian offensive.

He may possibly be bound for Bucharest via the air line, as he is an accomplished flier.

STRUCK A DREADNOUGHT.

British Submarine Damaged Hun Battleship With Torpedo.

LONDON, Nov. 7.—An Admiralty announcement says: "One of our submarines operating in the North Sea reports that she fired torpedoes at a German battleship of the dreadnought type near the Danish coast Sunday. The vessel was hit."

"The amount of damage is unknown."

The announcement gives no intimation whether any considerable portion of the German high seas fleet was in the North Sea Sunday.

It was off the Danish coast that the main German and British fleets engaged in battle last May. On several occasions the German fleet has left its base for short cruises in the North Sea. Ordinarily a dreadnought would not be employed merely for reconnoitring.

The fact that a German submarine was stranded off the Jutland coast on Saturday night, and blown up by its crew, would indicate that British warships were near enough

An Armament Race.

PARIS, Nov. 7.—The war's final phase, inaugurated this week, is in the form of the most dramatic armament race the world has ever seen. Mr. von Stein has announced that Germany, surprised on the Somme by the Entente Allies' superior output, began at once to increase hugely her supplies of guns and shells. "Every particle of the country's energy must be devoted to the production of munitions," said Marshal von Hindenburg, commander-in-chief. "I've come straight from the Somme," said General von Stein. "We must do everything in our power to surpass the enemy's gun and shell output. I'm going to apply myself to this task."

Made Poland a Kingdom.

WARSAW, Nov. 7.—The manifesto of Emperor William and Emperor Francis Joseph, again calling into existence the ancient kingdom of Poland, was read at noon Monday to the assembled Polish representatives in the royal palace by Governor-General von Beseler. Outside, in the great square before the castle and in the spacious courtyard of the venerable fourteenth century pile, inhabitants of the old Polish capital gathered by the thousands to attend the ceremony of what is designated as the rebirth of the Polish nation.

The academic youth of the country, students of the University of Warsaw, the polytechnic school and other high institutions of learning attended the ceremony in corporate units, bearing banners and wearing the gay student ribbons. Monday afternoon they are leading parades and demonstrations through streets bright with red flags. There are volunteers by the hundreds for the Polish army, which, the manifesto announced, will be called into existence.

Murdered by Austrian.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 7.—George Clements, aged 42, a son of the late Geo. Clements, an old-time tailor of Winnipeg, was murdered on Saturday in a little shack four miles west of Husovik, near Sandy Hook, Lake Winnipeg, by Mike Hyrhorczuk, an Austrian. Mr. Clements, with three others, went to Winnipeg beach to lock up their summer cottages for the winter, and finding that a number of articles had been stolen, they enlisted the services of the provincial police. On reaching the shack of Hyrhorczuk Mr. Clements identified several of the articles stolen, and while stooping to examine a pail the Austrian reached for a gun and fired. Hyrhorczuk then tried to reload, but a constable and a farmer, who had driven with him to the shack, after a desperate struggle lasting four hours, during which time several women of the Austrian's family took part in the fracas, effected his arrest.

Italian Naval Exploits.

ROME, Nov. 7.—Italian submarines entered the harbor of Pola and ineffectively fired two torpedoes at a large warship and returned unscathed after making a comprehensive reconnaissance under the guns of the fortress.

"Italian torpedo boats sank a large enemy steamer moored under the shelters of the defences at Durazzo the night of Nov. 3."

Pola is the great naval port and arsenal of Austria at the extremity of the peninsula of Istria on the Adriatic, south of Trieste.

Lots Easier.

Bobby rushed out to meet his father the other night as he was returning from work and said breathlessly: "Oh, papa, I won't have to study nearly so hard at school any more."

Now, Bobby had been doing far from well, and his father was pleased to hear of the new interest, hoping for better things.

"How's that, my son?" said he.

"Oh, I got put back a class."

SACRED TREE OF SPAIN.

And Its Connection With the Ancient Euskarian Language.

You all know about the Charter oak, that tree that figured in the fight for independence of the American colonies, and perhaps you have heard of other trees with national significance.

Did you ever hear of the sacred tree of Spain and the means by which it is perpetuated? It stands close to the town of Guernica, in Biscay, and under its spreading foliage the general juntas are inaugurated. Several centuries ago, when Spain was a loosely tied bundle of more or less independent states, the lords of Biscay took their oath under one of the parents of this same tree, where a stone bench was provided for their use, as symbolic of the enduring solidity of their reign. In some respects the tree shows a deeper symbolism than is to be found in the bench of hewn stone, for both the family dignity and the Euskarian language are handed from father to son.

In that isolated region a form of speech that is utterly different from both French and Spanish has been maintained since the beginnings of European civilization because each father made it his business to instill into his eldest son the idea that it was his duty to perpetuate his language and the peculiar institutions of his race.

The tree of the Basques is one of the hardiest of all the hardy things to be found around the bay of Biscay and the Pyrenees mountains. The one that is now standing was taken from the parent tree in 1780 and had been growing for thirty years when its 300-year-old progenitor succumbed to age and a hard windstorm. Another shoot was started from this one forty years ago.

CHINESE LETTER CARRIERS.

Feats They Must Perform Would Tire a Hercules.

How many of our own postmen would care to transfer their services to the Chinese postoffice?

To get into the postal service in China is not an easy matter.

In the first place an applicant must have strength and courage, and in order to gain these he must be prepared to undergo a very queer method of training. He must wander through mountains and valleys, forests and coves. The exact time to be occupied in a trip of this sort is fixed by the law, and a very heavy fine is imposed for any unnecessary delay.

The would be postman must repeat these trips at night, and if he listens to the bad spirit, thereby failing to appear at the required time at a specified place he is sure to lose his chance of being a postman.

But that is not all, for he is obliged to carry enormous weights for many miles and must return with his burden within a given time, though his road usually takes him through districts thick with bandits.

In training, the postman eats very little—though he is used to this—and tries every training exercise. Then comes his real examination, under the direction of the government officials. He is taken into a large room, where, suspended from a high beam, are very

YAQUIS OF MEXICO

An Indian Tribe Notorious For Its Savage Practices.

EVER DEFIANT AND WARLIKE.

Never Thoroughly Conquered, They Have Been Fanatically Fighting Four Centuries For the Land They Held Before Columbus Was Born.

The story of the Yaquis of Mexico is one of the most remarkable narratives in history. It has never been told in English except in more or less fragmentary fashion, and the English speaking world has missed thereby a romance worth reading.

The tale is liberally blotted with blood and stained with incidents of savage torture and treachery, for the Yaquis are a savage people, but running through it from beginning to end are a fanatic love of country, an indomitable courage and a hardihood that have never been excelled.

In certain parts of Mexico the name of Yaqui has acquired terrors almost legendary among the ignorant classes. It has become a term with which to frighten children. Even on the American side of the border the Yaqui often gets credit for being a more terrible person than he really is. In point of fact the Yaquis are the Apaches of Mexico, with rather more than the Apaches' ability for organization and stubborn resistance.

Aided by the fact that the government opposed to them has always been considerably weaker than that of the United States and by the inaccessible nature of the country that they love so devotedly, they have the distinction of being the only Indian tribe that has never been thoroughly and completely conquered by the whites. There have always been defiant Yaqui outlaws in the hills.

The story of the Yaquis is the story of their wars. Almost a century before the landing of the Pilgrims in New England an army of Spaniards with their Indian allies moved northward from Mexico City, conquering everything in their path. When they reached the bank of the Yaqui river they were met by a large band of Indians whose leader drew a line in the soft earth.

That line he forbade the Spaniards to cross. The white men opened fire with their cannon, but after a brief engagement the Yaquis routed them. The old Spanish chronicler states that he had fought with most of the Mexican Indian tribes, but, he says, "I have never seen Indians fight like these."

That was almost 400 years ago, and since then the Yaquis have fought almost without cessation. The Mexicans estimate that there have been almost 300 years of actual fighting between Mexicans and Yaquis.

Of late years the Mexican government had been adopting the only policy against the tribe which gave promise of eventual success in quelling their fighting spirit. This was the plan of deportation, by which the Indians were sent from Sonora to far away Yucatan as laborers on the plantations. This is said to be the only fate that frightens

TAUGHT THEM A LESSON.

The Czar's Rebuke to the Officers of One of His Regiments.

The czar is greatly loved by his own soldiers, and no wonder, for the following story is typical of him:

A certain Russian lieutenant who was none too well off was one day seen riding in a tram. The other officers of his regiment were furious at what they called an insult to the uniform, and they told the lieutenant that he must send in his papers. The unfortunate young officer had no alternative, but before he could do so the czar heard of the affair. Immediately putting on his colonel's uniform of the regiment in question, his majesty left the palace, hailed a passing tram and, entering it, sat calmly down until it stopped in front of the barracks.

There he got out and, assembling all the officers, said to them:

"Gentlemen, I have just ridden from the palace in a tram, and I desire to know if you wish me to send in my papers. I presume I have disgraced my uniform."

Naturally the officers were dumfounded.

"Sire," stammered the major nervously, "you could never do that."

"Then," answered the czar, smiling, "as I have not degraded the uniform Lieutenant — cannot have done so and will thus retain his commission in this regiment even if he, like me, dares to ride in a tram."

After that snobbery died a speedy death in that particular regiment.—Pearson's.

TRY IT ON THE DISK.

A Test That Proves the Human Skull a Good Sounding Box.

An interesting experiment that proves what a good sounding box the human skull is can be performed by any one who has a disk phonograph, says Electrical Engineering.

Stop up both of your ears with cotton as tightly as possible, so that no sound will be heard from the outside. Now place an ordinary darning needle between your teeth by biting on it hard, taking care that the tongue or lips do not touch the needle. The latter is important, because if either lip or tongue touches the needle the sound will be decreased considerably.

For the best results the needle itself should project not more than one or one and a half inches from the mouth. For that reason the darning needle should be broken off about one and one-half inches from its sharp point. It goes without saying that the sharp point should project out of the mouth, while the broken off end should be inside the mouth.

Now start an ordinary disk phonograph and carefully press down upon the record with the needle's point held at the same angle as the reproducer's needle is held ordinarily. As soon as the needle touches the record with sufficient pressure the inside of the head will be filled immediately with music exceedingly loud and clear.

DODGING THE

Easy to Sidestep a Miss From a Zeppelin

SIMPLE RULES FOR

Provided a Person Can Sign Before It Gets In Dashing Out of Its Range a Matter of Seconds and

There are well defined rules, it seems, depend upon avoidance of Zeppelin bombs of spherical perspective, an esoteric and complicated set of rules upon which they are actual practice of bombs relatively simple and easy.

When a "Zep" is sighted the first thing to do is to do course. This is done as if appears to be standing on practically vertical you are, of account any cross wind be, pretty nearly in its path get ready to run to right or left, at right angles to the pursuing. Even if you are its path there is no danger bombs except when it is your head.

And because the bomb takes considerable time to reach (probably twenty-five seconds) Zep is at an altitude or will have a reasonable "step" it even after seen. But any one who can't run yards, which is about the destructiveness of one of siles, in twenty-five seconds with the stimulus of a bomb, hasn't very much experience being blown up in this attitude.

If, on the other hand, the sighted appears to be tipping or the other—that is, its friend points to the left or right in no danger and can wait till fireworks without any pleasant thrills associated with peril of imminent death. It appears inclined to the left will pass to the left, and in other way, of course, to the right. Some allowance, however made for cross winds, as unwieldy bags have a variable side drift.

It is said to be usually these observations by means of aided eye with sufficient protection oneself. But in case should appear very close to position it may help the get into a place where it is partially covered by the house, a flagpole or other. If the Zep appears to be on the edge of the house or the ward the zenith the observer to have an immediate person in its visit. In case there or flagpole available a plan by a stone tied to a string the same purpose.

By following these few rules says Professor E. O. Picke little excuse for any one and able to get about with speed being caught by it.

every training exercise. Then comes his real examination, under the direction of the government officials. He is taken into a large room, where, suspended from a high beam, are very heavy sacks filled with rocks. He must give a swinging motion to all these sacks, run to and fro between them, carefully guarding himself against a blow from the heavy weights.—London Globe.

Dark Nebulae.

A new astronomical belief is that there are not only dark stars in space, but dark nebulae. The dark stars are invisible, revealing themselves only by their effect on the motion or light of bright stars, but dark nebulae may be visible as unlighted masses showing against the feebly luminous background of space. Professor E. E. Barnard notes that many striking dark patches of sky hitherto supposed to be simply starless regions may be really dark nebulae. The case of Hind's nebula in Taurus, which is now feebly visible after completely fading away from a state of conspicuous brilliancy shows that a nebula may lose its light, and perhaps many have never had any light.

Cave Him Away.

With a stormy look on his face, the master of the house waylaid the servant in the kitchen.

"Look here," he began angrily, "how dare you tell my wife what time I came home this morning, after I had told you not to?"

The Irish girl eyed him steadily. "Shure, an' Oi didn't!" she replied calmly. "She asked me phwat toime yez came in, an' Oi only tould her that Oi was too busy gettin' the breakfast ready to look at the clock."—London Mail.

A Proud Moment.

"The proudest day of her life this is," said the woman who watched the third floor bride go out dressed in her prettiest frock.

"How do you make that out?" said another woman enviously. "I thought last Thursday was her proudest day. She got married then."

"Ah, yes, but today she goes calling for the first time and leaves one of her husband's cards with her own. Any married woman who can remember back that far will tell you that the first time she distributed the calling cards of some man who belonged to her was the day she truly felt her importance."—New York Sun.

Precedent.

"Have you ever had any experience in this business before?"

"No, sir."

"Ever thought anything about it?"

"No, sir."

"And yet you want me to appoint you general manager of this company. Where did you get the idea?"

"Well, you know that's the way our government appoints its cabinet officers."

The Lesser Evil.

Old Grump—Why doesn't Ethel marry that young idiot? I'm getting blamed tired of his coming here so much. His wife—I believe I'd prefer to have him come here. If she marries him he'll stay here.

fighting spirit. This was the plan of deportation, by which the Indians were sent from Sonora to far away Yucatan as laborers on the plantations. This is said to be the only fate that frightens the Yaquis.

It is easy to idealize the Yaquis at a distance for their courage, their hardihood and their love of country, just as it is easy to paint them as impossible demons for their cruelty and treachery.

They have undoubtedly practiced savage tortures on their captives in the past, just as they have undoubtedly broken treaties with the Mexican government, but it is just as true that they are guided by a savage code of ethics and are fighting for land that in the last analysis belongs to them, for they held it before Columbus was born.

In flesh and blood the Yaqui is not a particularly romantic figure. He is the common laborer of Sonora, the peon, the herder of cattle and the tiller of the soil. In the Mexican towns of the district many of the servants are Yaquis. One of the chief difficulties in subduing them has been the highly developed clan spirit that prevails among them.

The outlaw from the hills, hard pressed, slips his rifle into a mesquite bush and enters some peaceful village of his people, where everybody will swear that he has lived there for years.

The Yaqui is a medium sized individual as a rule, rather stockily built, with a face broader and browner than that of the North American Indian whom the tourist sees in the west and who adorns our buffalo nickels. His wiry endurance is truly remarkable. Four centuries of almost continual warfare, interspersed with the hardest of hard work on the ranches, have made him tough as leather. He will travel for days at high speed through desert and mountain with little or no food; he will work all day in the fields under a sun glare that reaches 150 degrees heat in the direct rays. In fact, one of the chief problems in connection with the deportation scheme for handling the Yaqui is that of filling his place as a laborer in Sonora.

Some Famous Old Men.

Palmerston was premier at eighty-one, Gladstone at eighty-three, Metternich and Bismarck were driven out of power at seventy-five, Talleyrand was a power till his death at eighty-four, Guizot till eighty-six, Von Moltke till nearly eighty-eight. Ranke began his history of the world at eighty and wrote twelve volumes before he was ninety-one, while Buffon and Goethe were active octogenarians.—New York Post.

Origin of the Mastiff.

Mastiff is a term applied to a very large and powerful species of the canine family, and there is considerable conflict of opinion regarding the origin of the word. Some claim that it is derived from the Italian mastino or the French mastin, both of which signify large limbed. This word, they say, was gradually corrupted into masty, a Lincolnshire expression meaning very large, muscular or big, until it gradually assumed its present form. Others again say its true origin is the old German masten, to fatten, because the mastiff is a large dog and so seems better fed than any other.—London Field.

Brignoli in a Temper.

On one occasion Bianchi, the noted teacher, went on the stage to see Brignoli, the famous singer, whom he found pacing up and down like a madman, humming over his part.

"Why, Brig, what is the matter with you? Are you nervous?" he asked.

"Yes, I am nervous," was the reply as he walked harder and faster than ever.

"But, Brig, you ought not to be nervous. I've heard you sing the part 200 times. I heard you sing it thirty years ago."

"Thirty years ago! Who are you that should know so much?"

"Who am I? You know who I am, and I know who you are."

"Very well; you know what I am, but I am sure you do not know what you are, and if you wish I will tell you. You are a fool!"

Alexander in Mesopotamia.

The marshes of Mesopotamia were famous in the time of Alexander the Great. One of the last acts of his life, within a few weeks of his death, was a voyage down the Euphrates to the great dike of Pallakopas, about ninety miles below Babylon. This sluice has been constructed by the ancient Assyrian kings to let off the water of the river when it became excessive into the marshes. It was reported not to be working well, and Alexander proposed to construct another sluice lower down. He sailed on into the marshes, steering his vessel himself, with his diadem on his head, to explore them and the tombs of the kings, and so extensive were the lakes and swamps that Alexander's fleet lost its way among them.

Weather Variety.

Some growl perpetually at the weather; it is too hot or too cold; too wet or too dry. And yet a kind Providence arranges it infinitely better than we could. What a beautiful promise this was in the early history of the race: "While the earth remaineth, seed time and harvest, and cold and heat, and summer and winter, and day and night shall not cease."

Ants That Sew.

A writer in the Visitor tells of a party of German naturalists recently returned from Ceylon, who have reported the existence of a species of ant that has been observed in the act of sewing two leaves together for the purpose of forming a nest. This report confirms the observations of the English naturalist, Ridley, made in 1890. They saw a row of the insects pulling the edges of leaves together, then others trimming and fitting the edges and finally the completion of the work by still other ants, which fastened the edges with a silky thread yielded by larvae of the same species, which the workers carried in their mandibles. It is said that the sewing ants pass the thread-giving larvae like shuttles through holes in the edges of the leaves.

WATCH YOUR TIRES.

No Matter How Good They May Be
This Caution Is Necessary.

Many a car is sold on the representation that "the Blankmobile will run from 7,000 to 10,000 miles on a set of tires," and the motorist thus gleans
the opinion that his tires need no attention for that length of time.

But no car dealer's statement or tire
maker's guarantee can influence good or bad luck, and it is largely the work of the latter that places the bit of broken glass, the sharp stone or the protruding nail directly in the path of the unwary tire. Such an obstacle will not necessarily penetrate the tire—
the chances are that it will not—but a cut will be formed in the outer layer of rubber or tread, which, like an infected wound, will eventually spread and "infect" the entire surface.

A few moments spent in examining,
cleaning and plugging the cut or hole
will add thousands of miles to the life of the tire. The inexperienced motorist can form no conception of the readiness with which mud, sand and water
can enter the slight opening in the surface of the tire and by gradually working its way "under the skin" will tend to separate the tread from the outer layer of canvas.

In a few hundred or thousand miles
this tread will be hanging in flapping shreds, "worth no more than so much old rubber, and in order to be reclaimed the tire must be retreaded or used in connection with one of the several detachable treads on the market.—H.
W. Slauson, M. E., in Leslie's.

A Minor Detail.

"Why didn't you publish the account of my daughter's wedding?" she asked the society editor.

"It wasn't complete," was the reply.

"Not complete? Didn't I send you the names of the out of town guests, a description of the decorations and the bride's dress?"

"Yes."

"And the name of the minister who performed the ceremony? I took great pains to get the bridesmaid's gowns."

"I know you did. All that was in the article, but you forgot one important thing."

"What did I forget, I'd like to know?"

"You forgot to tell the name of the bridegroom."—Detroit Free Press.

Evidence of Genius.

"He started life with a shoestring, and now he has $1,000,000. Seems incredible, eh?"

"Not at all. I should consider that a man who could get anybody to buy one shoestring was inevitably bound to succeed."—Judge.

The Headache Excuse.

"Does your wife suffer from headaches much?"

"Only when I want her to do something that she doesn't want to do."

A Cruel Comparison.

"Why does he say that her face is like one of Browning's poems?"

"Because it has some hard lines in it."

TEMPORARY INSANITY.

Caused by Mental Trouble Somewhat Akin to Epilepsy.

Is there such a thing as temporary insanity?

Many people think that the expression merely covers the kindly intentions of a jury to save relatives pain,
but numbers of doctors who have made a study of mental disorders emphatically declare it is no idle term.

One doctor has stated that temporary insanity is a condition of double consciousness, not dissimilar to epilepsy. A person normally quite sane may have attacks of temporary aberration lasting little more than a few minutes, especially after long bouts of hard, continuous mental work, being particularly liable if insomnia supervenes.

Crimes have been committed in the early morning, when the perpetrator has not really been properly awake and has been horrified to find what he has done. This is a true case of temporary insanity, but it is comparatively rare,
and a man in normal health would not suffer in this way.

A specialist in mental diseases has stated that he knew a case in which a person was insane during a certain time each day and that others have been known when the patient was quite normal at ordinary times, but suffered from a temporary fit of mania regularly once a month.—Pearson's Weekly.

Secrecy in Parliament.

Heavy penalties are inflicted for the revelation of parliamentary secret session or cabinet decisions, but they cannot well be heavier than those which the parliament of Henry VII, inflicted for a similar offense. One member of the house of commons was foolish enough to tell the king himself
what the commons had been debating.
He was sent to the tower, and a special act of parliament was passed by which he and his posterity were barred from sitting in the house of commons
as the "representative of any place whatever." In the days of Queen Elizabeth a certain Mr. Hall, M. P., was found guilty of revealing the debates in the commons. He was expelled from the house, sent to the tower for six months and fined £500—a considerable fortune in those days.—London Spectator.

THE DEAD SEA.

Some Interesting Facts About This Curious Body of Water.

For a number of years many persons have declared the Dead sea, in Palestine, is diminishing, but a recent careful survey by experts has established beyond all doubt that the sea is steady-ly increasing.

At many points on its southern and eastern borders there are vast forests
with large trees becoming submerged.

The sea is about forty miles in length and ten miles wide at the broadest portion. Should it continue to enlarge it will take in valuable country, but, so far as known, there is no way to prevent this.

Mediterranean waters are 1,300 feet higher than the Dead sea level, but this is no proof the waters of the Dead sea are drying up.

EXTRAVAGANT EUGENIE.

The Empress Boasted That She Never Wore a Gown Twice.

It is true that the cost of women's dress has so increased that it is not given to the many to be as truly elegant as their grandmothers were able to be at comparatively small cost.
But, then, those were the days when an elaborate ball gown consisted of yards of frouces of tulle and some other light and uncouth material.

Empress Eugenie, it is said, declared
she never wore the same gown twice.
She it was, by the way, who made Worth, the renowned Paris couturier, famous. The great luxury in those days was to wear several ball gowns
during the course of a single ball.
Dressing rooms were provided, and the ladies retired to reappear resplendent and as fresh as at the beginning of the evening. The gowns of the day, which were flimsy of train and spread by crinolines, suffered much from an evening's wear; hence these wasteful ways.

There is a tale of the lovely Empress Elizabeth of Austria which recounts her appearing at a function in a white tulle gown, flounced and ample, decorated with garlands of real camellias,
and changing both gown and camellias
every now and then to preserve the impression of absolute and uncrumpled
freshness.

Bird Stories.

A German scientific journal published in 1897 a story to the effect that a golden eagle shot in that year at Es-zeg, Slavonia, was found to have a ring about its neck engraved on which were the arms of a Slavonian family and the date 1646.

In 1793 the Gentleman's Magazine told about a hawk, captured when flying in the vicinity of the Cape of Good Hope and taken by an Indian ship to England, which wore a gold collar inscribed:

"This good hawk doth belong to his Most Excellent Majesty James,
King of England, A. D. 1610."

If this bird really escaped from England in the reign of James 133 years elapsed between its escape and its recapture, and it had flown a distance of 6,500 miles away from its former owner.

Have a Cheery Kitchen.

One should bear in mind that the kitchen is the engine room of the home, and the comfort and happiness of the family depend upon its running smoothly and well. Lack of system, inadequate equipment, inconvenient arrangement of furniture and utensils and the total absence of beauty and cheer are the things that make drudgery of housework. Servants are as susceptible to surroundings as their mistresses, and the little aids to housework, such as cheerful aspect and pretty furnishings, do much to secure a more loyal interest and co-operation. A harmonious environment in a kitchen will go a long way toward making a happy home.—Harriet Sisson Gillespie in Mother's Magazine.

A Change.

"We must economize," he said per- emptorily.
"I'm so glad!" his wife exclaimed.
"You take the announcement more good naturedly than usual."
"Yes; it's pleasant to hear you use the plural pronoun. Ordinarily when there is any economizing needed you expect me to do it all."

Feminine Confidence.

"I shall never scold my husband again for spending so much time at the club."
"Tell me about it."
"Well, last night a burglar got into the house, and my husband knocked him senseless with a poker. I've heard several men speak of him as a poker expert. He has evidently been practicing at the club for just such an emergency."

Enjoy It Now.

Nature has placed nothing so high that virtue cannot reach it.—Quintus Curtius Rufus.

Mediteranean waters are 1,300 feet higher than the Dead sea level, but this is no proof the waters of the Dead sea are drying up.

A survey of the wonderful region of years ago shows islands that are now gone. It is declared these are covered. There is so much solid matter in the water that it makes about one-fifth, or 20 per cent, of the matter solid. It is so intensely salt and bitter that no crea- ture can live in it.

The bed of the sea is rich with min- eral deposits. Salts, copper, lead and zinc and marble are found in vast quan- tities, and experts are of the opinion there is a great deposit of petroleum beneath the vast body of water.

A man's body is lighter than the amount of water it displaces, and it is therefore impossible for a person to sink.

Vegetation is scarce and greatly stunted for miles about the sea.

When a Dog Chokes.

Dogs frequently choke. A bone, a nail or a piece of tin gets in the throat, and there is great danger of death be- fore the arrival of the surgeon. Many of them do die, but there is no reason for this, for it is easy, without the slightest danger of getting bitten, to put the hand in the mouth of a dog and to draw out or push down the ob- struction that is choking it. A bandage—a handkerchief or towel will do—is passed between the teeth and over the upper jaw, and in a similar way another bandage is passed between the teeth and over the under jaw. One person, holding the ends of these two band- ages, keeps the dog's mouth wide open. A second person can then with perfect ease and safety put his fingers down the animal's throat and relieve it.

Modern war is a very apt example of fitting after events to a prophecy.

The Chippewayan Woman.

Ideals may vary, but it seems that the Chippewyan Indians also had a well rounded conception of "woman's sphere." "Women were made to take of an old chief told the traveler Hodge. "One of them can carry or haul as much as two men can do. They re- patch our tents and make and mend our clothing—in fact, there is not a thing as traveling any considerable dis- tance without their assistance."

Dear Sir,—Referring to the and in reply to your letter of 4th, I am directed to state that the Board's Engineering Department made an investigation and regard to the sag which you might be raised 4½ feet over the present elevation of the Belleville that this would necessitate a for the subway, and it would be drained. The Board's understands that the drainage have to be taken care of for a mile. On the other hand the might be raised so as to grade over the highway, and a subway could be put in, than 30 feet wide, at a cost $50,000 to $60,000. The would also have to be taken in the same manner as already.

In the meantime, however, the Board's Engineer suggests that anything further is done the Northern Railway be called make a survey by taking of this crossing, and lay out way on two plans—one planing the railway and taking sag—the other, or alternate raising the railway 10 feet care of a 5-10th grade on a 30 ft. subway; also no work done on the station pending formation which should be in two weeks time.

Women's Patriotic Service and Red Cross Work

Through the "U. E. Loyalty" Chapter, I.O.D.E.

Last week two fine shipments were made, one being a large case of clothing, with many pairs of boots and shoes, etc., sent to the Secours National for French, Belgian and Serbian refugees, who are in great need of such assistance. We have since received a personal letter of gratitude and appreciation from the Convenor of the Relief Committee.

The other shipment was a case of "comfort bags" very completely furnished, which are now so much required in the hospitals—the supply in no way equalling the demand. For this donation we have also received a very grateful and appreciative letter of thanks from the Hon. Sec. and Superintendent of Supplies at the Canadian Red Cross Headquarters, Toronto.

This week our members are very busy at the work rooms preparing and shipping Christmas parcels for our men on active service and in hospital. Anyone interested in this work is asked to go to the room early on Saturday afternoon to assist. Our room continues open on Thursdays and Saturdays until 5.30 p.m.

The Red Cross Society

A short time ago it was decided by the Red Cross to send a Christmas Greeting to every boy, either officer or private, who had gone overseas from the county of Lennox and Addington. This gift took the form of a box containing a pair of socks and a stocking of red net in which were many useful articles, each wrapped in tissue paper and fastened with a Christmas seal.

By a happy thought of Mrs. (Major) Sneath a Christmas card was also enclosed, on which was sealed a red Maple Leaf, and underneath, the words "Christmas Greetings from the Napanee Red Cross Society." These cards were kindly donated by Mrs. Sneath.

Too much praise cannot be given to Mrs. J. W. Robinson, who had full charge of the boxes, and who worked unceasingly for several weeks getting the many addresses and preparing for the shipment, and we are pleased to state, that by her careful buying, many dollars were saved the Society.

We also wish to thank those who gave donations towards the expense of the stockings, and all who in any way helped to make the undertaking a success. We feel assured that by sending these boxes, which numbered two hundred we will bring joy to many hearts this Christmas of 1916. Mrs. F. S. Wartman reports lively interest in the Prisoners-of-War Department. There were many chain-teas last week, and through the kindness of Mrs. George Gibbard in sending us a donation of $10, we are able this month to forward parcels to four extra prisoners.

We are pleased to announce that the Red White and Blue Club purpose giving a bazaar and concert early in December, in aid of the Red Cross. These young workers have helped us many times before and we again wish them success.

The Society gratefully acknowledges the following donations: Ladies Aid of Methodist church, Roblin, $6.00; Miss Meyer's pupils, $1.25; A Friend, Napanee, $25; Mrs. D. M. Gandler, of California, $5; and Mr. Thos. Fisher, Philadelphia, $50. Mr. Fisher is already a Life Member of our Society, and the keen interest he takes in our work is greatly appreciated.

An event of unusual interest will take place at our work meeting, at 4.30 p.m., when Mrs. Denison, of Toronto, will present to Horace Ward, son of Mrs. G. C. T. Ward, a medal given by the Canadian Humane Society for saving the life of a young woman at Bon Echo Inn.

The hall will be open in the morning and in the afternoon tea will be served.

—We wish to express our appreciation of the more than kindly which you have met our need for an improved water service in a strange town, naturally encountered many difficulties and have been under the necessity of expending considerable money in order to get our water in order, and one of the most important features of our operation up to the present time has been the manner in which it has been put out to accomplish the first place by building and putting up a light, second instance by extending water mains. Had we been in your town permanently we would expect some consideration from the authorities, but as we are of a temporary nature we expect the same treatment as we were locating there.

—We say that from present indications we are assured of maximum water until next April. What will be the condition that time is, of course, beyond our hands on account of the fact that the Dominion Canners may have their plant next spring. In any event this would surely be a continuous operation for our name or under that of the Canners.

—We say that our relations during the last six months will be as pleasant as have been during the last six, and that you will find your town received from our amount of money set on by our operations will repay you for the trouble you have been put to on our account.

VALLACE'S Drug Store

Commencing on Nov. 1st Messrs. Shannon and Kimmerly, milk drawers, will make trips to their respective factories every other day. They report a big drop in milk, owing to a shortage in pasture.

A good many of the farmers are this week shipping their pigs to Toronto and Montreal, selling to Napanee buyers.

Mr. French passed through this locality recently finishing up the odd jobs and threshing buckwheat.

Mr. Arnold Kirkpatrick, who has been working Mrs. McCaul's farm on shares for the past year, recently moved to Napanee in his own house. Arnold was a jolly good fellow and well liked by all the neighbors.

Mr. Samuel Sagar, who recently sold his farm to Mr. Janes, and moved to Deseronto, is still hauling his grain to town where he finds a ready market for it, owing to the short grain crop this summer.

Gilbert McGreer recently purchased a nice bunch of calves from Ed. Conger, of the Sand Hill.

The clover dresser is expected in our midst next week.

Mrs. Thomas McCaul and daughter, Myrtle of Toronto, spent a few days visiting Mrs. Edith McCaul.

HOW THE CANNERS RAISED THE LIVING.

What high protection and the boosting of prices by the trusts is doing to rob the working people of this country is aptly illustrated by S. J. Mathewson, the well-known wholesale grocer. Canada is a tomato-producing country. We have such enormous crops of tomatoes every year that it is impossible to utilize them all. Yet with this superabundance of products, the canners' combination has managed to make canned tomatoes dearer here than in almost any other country in the world.

On September 11th last sales of tomatoes were made in the United States at 90 cents per dozen cans. At the present time tomatoes can be bought in the United States at $1.30 per dozen. The Canadian net price at the factory is $2.25 per dozen, or $2.60 to the retail trade. This means that Canadians have to pay 25 cents per tin at the stores, and their brethren over the border have been able to buy them as late as Thanksgiving Day, at three times for 25 cents retail. Here is a concrete instance of unfair treatment of the Canadian customer.

Mr. Mathewson has told the Government what the remedy is. Has the Borden Government ever moved a finger to keep the cost of living within reasonable bounds? These high prices on tomatoes, like the high prices on everything else, are the result of the increased protection put into force by the Government.

The "S O S" Call.

The original wireless signal of distress at sea, "C Q D," was adapted from the old "all stations" or general call of line telegraphy. But at the first international wireless congress it was suggested and approved that a better call was "S O S," which, by its arrangement of dots and dashes, is different from any other call.

"S O S" has no special meaning. It is not intended to express "Save our souls" or anything else equally dramatic. This call is an international one and has the same meaning in all languages.

No. 51, by order, $2.10; H. L. Shannon, for 62 loads of gravel furnished road div. No. 8, also for 34 loads furnished road div. No. 6, by order, $9.60; Wm. SPECIAL MEETING

Napanee, Oct. 14th, 1916.

Richmond Council met to-day in Napanee. Moved by Mr. Russell, seconded by Mr. Hartin, that the clerk be instructed to notify the owners benefited by Swamp Drain No. 1, to clean out same properly within 30 days, as provided by the Municipal Drainage Act, and in default of so doing, the council will have the work performed as provided by law. Its Charm and Hospitality and the Motto It Lived Up To.

Many frequenters have tried to express the charm of Mark Twain's household. Few have succeeded, for it lay not in the house itself nor in its furnishings, beautiful as these things were, but in the personality of its occupants, the daily round of their lives, the atmosphere which they unconsciously created. From its wide entrance hall and tiny jewel-like conservatory below to the billiard room at the top of the house it seemed perfectly appointed, serenely ordered and full of welcome.

The home of one of the most unusual and unaccountable personalities in the world was filled with gentleness and peace. It was Mrs. Clemens who was chiefly responsible. She was no longer the half timid, inexperienced girl he had married. Association, study and travel had brought her knowledge and confidence. When the great ones of the world came to visit America's most picturesque literary figure, she gave welcome to them and filled her place at his side with such sweet grace that those who came to pay their duties to him often returned to pay still greater devotion to his companion.

William Dean Howells, so often a visitor there, once said to the writer:

"Words cannot express Mrs. Clemens—her fineness, her delicate, wonderful tact." And again, "She was not only a beautiful soul, but a woman of singular intellectual power."

There were always visitors in the Clemens home. Above the mantel in the library was written, "The ornament of a house is the friends that frequent it," and the Clemens home never lacked of these ornaments, and they were of the world's best. No distinguished person came to America that did not pay a visit to Hartford and Mark Twain. Generally it was not merely a call, but a stay of days. The welcome was always genuine, the entertainment unstinted.—Albert Bigelow Paine in St. Nicholas.

OUR OTTAWA LETTER

When Paris handed the golden apple to Venus it turned out rather a grim joke, but the incident is not to be compared with the lemon R. B. Bennett, M. P., would have handed Sir Wilfrid Laurier if the Opposition leader had consented to sit on the recruiting board, of which the Calgary statesman had been made chairman.

Circumstances alter casts of course, and there is no doubt that an invitation from the non-partisan chairman of a National Service Commission, to wit, Sir Thomas Tait, to sit along with him on a non-partisan board would have received sympathetic consideration. But an invitation to be part of a seven to five board, consisting of members of parliament, and others, shepherded by a violent partisan like R. B. Bennett, was another story. In vain is the net spread in sight of the intended victim.

Whether Sir Thomas Tait himself conceived the idea of inviting Sir Wilfrid Laurier to his council, or whether the idea had its source in more artful quarters, is neither here nor there. The fact remains that one man, Sir Thomas Tait, penned the invitation and another man, R. B. Bennett, was there to receive the answer. Necessarily the vehement politician received a different answer from that which would have been suitable if a strictly impartial patriot, wholly detached from party politics, had been there to get the answer.

Another fact that presses is that the non-partisanship of which Sir Thomas Tait was supposed to be the symbol vanished with Sir Thomas Tait. What happened to Sir Thomas is a pithy commentary on the non-partisanship of the commission which he was asked to handle. They did not endow Sir Thomas with enough independence to appoint his own secretary. When he appointed one, Mr. Murray, who had told one little shred of truth about the Borden Government, namely, that "it was dawdling away its time on the recruiting business"—in short making a tedious and expensive bluff—Sir Thomas was promptly told that he couldn't have plain-speakers like that about him and that Mr. Murray had better get out. Sir Thomas felt that he had about as much chance of being non-partisan on

frid or his Liberal supporters to share is any blame that may accrue as a result of dilatory methods.

Moreover, Sir Wilfrid Laurier was offered no place on this committee commensurate with his importance as leader of His Majesty's loyal Opposition. He was to be a simple member of the committee, an insignificant voting unit, who might give good advice and then lose it in the division. Instead of coordinate authority with R. B. Bennett, what this committee offered him was a subordinate position in which his wisdom, the weight of his years, and his experience would all be subject to the veto of aumptious young man from the west who has been only five years in Parliament. That was a nice job for Sir Wilfrid Laurier, especially when you consider how non-partisan R. B. can't be when he gets his Terry dander up, which is most of the time.

Viewed in this light, Sir Wilfrid's refusal to sit on a committee headed by as vehement a partisan as R. B. Bennett, acting under the direction of a Government with such a violent repugnance to facts that it fires a private secretary for telling one small iota of the truth—viewed in this light I repeat, Sir Wilfrid's refusal to sit on the committee is both natural and commendable. The only thing ahead of this National Service Commission with R. B. Bennett as its pilot is strife and engine trouble. Besides, there is much force in Sir Wilfrid's contention that a committee of business men and manufacturers would be of more use than a committee of parliamentarians in advising a National Service Commission where and how to lay hands on the man power that is not being used to the best advantage in this war.

Meanwhile the registration scheme languishes. Nothing is done about it. The public doesn't even know whether the registration is mandatory or optional. If it is optional it will probably amount to nothing. If it is mandatory it will dig up a lot of information about the workers which may ultimately be utilized if the Borden Government decides on conscription, as Sir George Foster would have it do. At all events that is the way registration worked out in Australia, where Premier Hughes is now utilizing the facts unearthed by it in his arguments for conscription.

While the National Service Commission under Mr. Bennett, is marking time, Premier Borden is issuing calls for the last hundred thousand. Sir Robert is some caller. That's his way out of it. When there's nothing else to do he calls. I hear you calling me. He calls this way and that—but never angrily. No menace—no sharp words—not even a slap on the wrist—just calls. He calls on the people to do their bit to save the empire by enlisting just as Sir Thomas White calls on them to save the empire by being thrifty and turning over their savings to him to establish a Canadian War Credit for the British War Office which will defray the ten million dollars a day now being spent in this country for war supplies purchased from our manufacturers. Quite right and proper in both cases. But the call should go further.

If the people of this country do their bit by enlisting and also by handing their money to the Finance Minister to meet the war expenditures, then the Government should also do its bit by calling on the profiteers to disgorge, on the army contractors of one kind and another to have a

Canada Needs More Poultry, Great Br Mo

At no time in the history of the Dominion has the necessity for increased production of eggs been more apparent than at the present time. The demand is urgent. This is true whether the eggs are for home consumption or for export, generally, and even produce themselves are eating more and more. The average per capita consumption of eggs in Canada this year is greater than ever before.

The market for Canadian poultry is very firm. Producers are extremely high. At these prices trade is inactive all over the country. Prospects for a continued very bright. The country shortage, not only of current but of Canadian storage stock. So great has been the export that we shall be obliged to meet our own requirements. Production has never been more secure foundation.

That poultry on the farmable needs no argument. It ranks as a staple article in the diet of the farm. Poultry flock increased materially with additional outlay for building equipment, and the increase involved is not such as heavily upon the time of the with the care of the stock. The object to the present price when it is considered that the price of the product is from sixty per cent. higher than years ago, the margin of profit will compare favourably with obtainable elsewhere on the farm.

Canadian egg production responded well to the call for production. The country which was importing eggs a year ago, has, in the aggregate, more than sufficient for its requirements this year and last. Seven and eight million dozen eggs were exported to Britain last year, and as an of what is going forward nearly one million dozen were during the first week in October the supply on the British still short, and there is a many millions more. In addition, more and better should be the motto of every farm and homestead.

Canada has all the requisites for production of a quantity far in excess of her own requirements, her favourable climatic conditions, with proper care and produce quality equal to that of the world. Only the frictions of distribution possibilities has been up to the present. The Provinces, with their voluntary feed, are the natural home of the Canadian hen. The bulk of the production is at the present time in the provinces of Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, and Newfoundland. They must do more; and there is an opportunity for the Provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, and Alberta to demonstrate and the Empire as a whole can do in this connection. It is a matter of trade expansion, experimental shipments of Winnipeg to the British. Either now, or soon, will be a way, and it is hoped that it

stripe the same color as the party in power. This fact may have also influenced Sir Thomas' conduct and have led him to believe that non-partisanship wasn't going to have much of a show even before the incident in regard to his secretary confirmed him in that opinion. At any rate Sir Thomas quit cold. He saw that a National Service Commission, under the direct tutelage of Premier Borden,
who in turn was under the tutelage of somebody else, was no place for a non-partisan patriot who had nothing but the good of his country and the British Empire at heart. It was pre-eminently a place and time for disappearing—and disappear Sir Thomas did.

It was this nervous scene of partisanship, made still more palpitant by the presence of R. B. Bennett, that Sir Wilfrid was asked to countenance
by becoming a private member of a committee of twelve members of Parliament divided politically seven and five. They didn't even have the grace to suggest, did those party manipulators, that a supposedly non-partisan committee should be evenly balanced by cutting out the partisan majority of two. No indeed. Safety first. That was R. B. Bennett's motto, and presumably Premier Borden's, who is behind him and presumably the party managers' who are behind Premier Borden.

The Conservative party was not to lose its exclusive grip of the war. So far as Canada is concerned this is to be a Tory war from start to finish.

NO FEDERAL AID.

The Canadian Patriotic Fund Is Undertaking to Raise Thirteen and a Half Million Dollars
For 1917.

Ottawa, Nov. 3, 1916.—The officials of the Canadian Patriotic Fund are engaged in extensive preparations for the great campaign with which the work for 1917 is to be inaugurated.
The Executive Committee decided at its recent meeting that it would be wise to focus public attention upon the Fund and its work at a time near the beginning of the year, and the latter part of January has been selected as the time during which local campaigns for subscriptions should be carried on in as many municipalities
as possible.

Sir Herbert Ames, the Honorary
Secretary of the Fund, has been spending the past month in Western Canada, stimulating public interest in the Fund, and securing, wherever practicable, the co-operation of the Provincial Governments, and of municipal corporations. His reports as to the attitude of the West towards the Fund, are most encouraging. Notwithstanding that it felt the commercial depression more deeply than any other part of Canada, that it has been helped by the trade in munitions of war, to a very slight extent, and that it has sent men to the war in very large numbers, Western Canada is pledging itself to raise what must be considered huge sums for the maintenance of the Patriotic Fund.

So far as Ontario is concerned, the object of the approaching campaign is to raise the six million dollars which that Province is being asked to contribute for 1917. In the past, Ontario has given more than she has received from the Fund, the surplus going to the West, where large enlistments created a demand that fell with peculiar heaviness upon communities suffering from business depression. In 1917 the situation will be changed, and Ontario will be asked only for the money it is estimated will be spent in the Province.

The total of the sum to be raised in 1917 is thirteen and a half million dollars. Ontario's share of this is six million, of which about four million have to be raised by private subscriptions. To ensure that this large sum be available is no slight task, and the campaign of general publicity and of local solicitation soon to be launched is based on the belief that the Fund
should be assured, early in the year,

that it will be in a position to meet all demands on it by dependents of Canada's soldiers.

The Fund is most economically administered and the great increase in the sums required to carry on its work is due entirely to the increase in size of the Canadian armies. For the most part, the work of the Fund is carried on by men and women who are not paid for their services. The local organizations scrutinize closely all claims upon the Fund, and follow up,
from month to month, each individual case, not merely to provide against any imposition on the Fund, but to further assist every deserving and needy recipient. The distribution of the moneys by the branches is subject in Ottawa to a close monthly check and audit, and in addition the Auditor-General's office investigates all the financial operations of the Fund.

There is no foundation for the report that the Dominion Government is to be asked to assume responsibility for the Fund. For it to do so would imply the equal treatment of all dependents, whether in need or not, thus throwing
on the country an increased liability of millions of dollars. The purpose of the Fund is to assist those, and those only, who require a greater measure of help than is given by the Government separation allowance and assigned pay. Of every three persons receiving separation allowance, two are on the Patriotic Fund, the other one not being in need of further assistance.

PENALTY OF A RIME.

Caustic Collingborne Paid For His Taunt at Richard III.

Did you ever hear of a spring poet who came to his death because of a rime? Doubtless many spring poets have merited the same fate, but in our day justice tarries and the world suffers in silence.

It was not thus when Richard III., last of the Plantagenets, ruled England. In the main the people who did not agree with the Duke of Gloucester were wise enough to keep their opinions to themselves, but William Collingborne thought to stretch poetic license to make it cover an attack on his majesty at a time when the murder of the two princes in the Tower ought to have taught prudence.

The king was under the sway of a beautiful and clever woman, Mrs. Lovell, who was thought to dictate much of his policy, which was hopelessly bad. Now, Collingborne had recourse to the fact that the wolf dog was called a "lovel," and so he penned the famous rime, "The rat, the cat and lovel, our dog, rule all England under the hog." As a result, England was decidedly "on the hog."

Did the rime escape the eagle eye of Gloucester? Well, if it did it was not overlooked by the lady. That was a year before the famous battle of Bosworth, when the Earl of Richmond came to the rescue of his suffering people. Richard had put down Buckingham's rebellion, and all the traitors had paid the price with their heads, so another head more or less did not matter. Collingborne was summoned into court, given a perfunctory trial and sent to the block. However, there is no evidence that he was punished for writing atrocious poetry.

SAVING OLD MANUSCRIPTS.

How Valuable Papers Are Mended and Mounted For Preserving.

There are not fifty persons in the United States who are skilled in the preservation and repairing of old manuscripts. One of them, says the University of Wisconsin Bulletin, may be found working on the third floor of the Wisconsin Historical library building at Madison, one of the six or seven institutions in the country that carry on such work scientifically.

About a generation or two ago a priest in the Vatican library at Rome originated and developed the process now in use in the taking care of old papers.

The first thing done in the process of preserving the letters is to place them between wet newspapers under a weight and leave them for five or six hours. This removes the creases and the dirt. Then they are put between wood pulp boards and left twenty-four hours and then between blotters to complete the drying process. The next step is to repair the paper.

The paper of some of these letters is so old when received that it falls to pieces if struck. This is strengthened by a layer of a sort of transparent cloth, on both sides of the piece of paper. Other letters need mending along the edges with parchment paper. To cover holes a piece of paper is glued over the edges and is left larger than

SECRETS OF SPACE

What Might Be Revealed if Nature Lifted the Veil.

WONDERS OF THE INVISIBLE.

Evidence That What We Call the Universe Is Only a Part of a Far Grandder and Perhaps Infinite System of Suns and Worlds and Planets.

Men of science have found reasons for believing that there may be, far off in infinite space, other material systems besides the one visible to us. We seem to be able with modern telescopes to reach the boundaries or farthest limits of the stellar system to which our sun belongs.

It is found that with increase of distance the relative number of stars decreases until, in most directions at least, a point is reached beyond which virtually no more stars can be seen. Then, too, it has been found that the stellar system has a fairly definite shape—a fact which in itself implies boundaries. The shape is that of a vast spiral, with curving arms surrounding a central agglomeration. If you will imagine floating in the middle of the room where you sit a roughly globular swarm of bright particles, distributed with a fair degree of uniformity as to distance from one another, and then outside of the swarm surrounding it, but separated from it by a space which is nearly but not quite empty, an irregular spiral ring of similar shining particles, you will have before you a picture of one of the latest astronomical conceptions of the form of the visible universe.

The central swarm will represent the assemblage of stars of which our sun is a modest member, while the enveloping spiral will represent the immense system of the Milky way, whose stars are vastly more numerous than those composing the globular swarm. The stars of the Milky way are the most distant members of the entire system, which appears to be shut in all around by black space. Viewed from afar off in the ebon depths of that space, this universe of ours would resemble a phosphorescent jellyfish, with faintly sparkling tentacles, afloat in the sea of immensity.

This being so, the question naturally arises, May there not be, or must there not be, an indefinite number of other such systems scattered through the limitless expanse of space? That question would forever remain a matter of pure conjecture if we did not have certain very suggestive facts which seem to indicate that it ought to be answered in the affirmative.

The facts of which I speak are objects of visual observation. But that does not necessarily make them parts of the "visible universe," because they appear to be unconnected with it and to lie beyond its boundaries.

These objects are known as spiral nebulae. The photographs that have been made of them in the past few years are simply amazing. The forms of many are surprisingly like that which has been described above as

ANCIENT TOBACCO.

Tibetans Are Said to Have Used the Weed 2,200 Years Ago.

It is generally supposed that tobacco was unknown in the old world until after the discovery of America. But there is excellent evidence that it was known and used in Tibet as early as 377 B. C. In a note to an article in the Geographical Review Dr. Berthold Laufer of the Field Museum of Natural History, Chicago, writes as follows:

"Among the many curiosities of the Tibetan-English dictionary, published in 1902 by Sarat Chandra Das, the well known Bengali student of Tibetan and explorer of Tibet, we read that the evil drug tobacco (in Tibetan tha-ma-kha) appeared in ancient time about 100 years after the death of Buddha, which would yield the date 377 B. C., and that mention is made of tobacco also in the writings of a lama who is dated in the twelfth century A. D.

"In 1908 I enjoyed the privilege of spending several months in Lassa villa, the house of Das, in Darjeeling, and when one evening, in the course of a learned conversation with him, I ventured to draw his attention to this chronological anomaly and the post Columbian introduction of tobacco into Europe and Asia he replied, 'This is your tradition, and that (pointing to the passage in his dictionary) is our tradition, and our traditions certainly are as good as yours.'"

THE HOUSE WREN.

A Good Little Friend That Should Be Protected From Sparrows.

A little friend worth having is the wren. During its working hours it will pry into nooks and crannies about the garden and orchard, picking up grasshoppers, spiders, beetles, thousand legged worms—anything which isn't too big for it to carry off. When it is through work it will perch on the front porch of its little home, lift its head and sing a warbling little song that will delight your heart.

It is called the house wren because it prefers a little box house for its home. A generation ago it built a nest in holes in trees, in hollow fence rails or even in an old hat. Then came the sparrow, and the wren's nest was raided.

Since then the wren's only refuge is in a nest which has a door too small to admit its enemy, the sparrow. If you want the wren to spend a summer with you build a home with a door not more than an inch in diameter. This will bar the sparrow and give the smaller bird easy entry.

Years of continuous fighting against the sparrows has given the wren a temper like a spoiled child. It ruffles its feathers at the slightest interruption. When it has its own way, with a good home and plenty to eat, it is as cheerful as a Sunday school picnic.

Power of Words.

"For me," writes Lafcadio Hearn in the "Japanese Letters of Lafcadio Hearn," "words have color, form, character. They have faces, ports, manners, gesticulations; they have moods, humors, eccentricities; they have tints, tones, personalities."

A good instance of this power appears in a description of Patti's sing-

"DO YOU FOLLOW"

You See the Point, of Course Get the Idea.

No person who values his life and who doesn't want to be ever say "Do you follow?" expounding a subject to a faint acquaintance. There are so many sons against the use of this story that only two or three ones need be mentioned.

If you are enunciating words the chances are nine hundred and ninety-eight out of nine hundred and ninety-nine that you are not understood. On the other hand, enunciating foolish words it difference whether you are understood or not. A still more reason, however, is embodied in the simple but inescapable fact that no man can ever be quite sure that he understands what the other fellow is trying to express.

Therefore the proper answer to the question "Do you follow?" is "I don't know." That makes the question itself a little more absurd.

per. Other letters need mending along the edges with parchment paper. To cover holes a piece of paper is glued over the edges and is left larger than the hole until dry. It is then cut down to the proper size, and the edges are sandpapered until smooth. After all such repairs are made the letters are mounted on large white sheets and prepared for binding.

Bear Baiting.

In the time of Shakespeare theaters were often used for bear baiting as well as for the presentation of plays and in some cases were equipped with a stage which could be removed when the bear baiting was to occur. The contemporary attitude toward this diversion is seen in this quotation: "It was a sport very pleasant to see the bear with his pink eyes leering after his enemies' approach." It is comforting to reflect in these days that the killing of animals, at least as a form of public amusement, has greatly diminished and in most countries has disappeared.—Outlook.

What Impressed Her.

Shortly after Will Crooks, the labor leader, was elected to parliament, says an English weekly, he took his little daughter to Westminster. She was evidently awed at the splendors round her and maintained a profound and wondering silence all the time. Mr. Crooks was delighted to see her so much impressed.

"Well," said he to her at last, "what are you thinking so deeply about, dear?"

"I was thinking, daddy," answered the little girl, "that you're a big man in our kitchen, but you aren't very much here."

Changed Meaning.

One of the best examples of how to end letters incorrectly is that of a soldier who wrote home to his wife the following sentence without a single stop or comma:

"May heaven cherish and keep you from yours affectionately John Don."

Difference of Opinion.

"I have nothing to live for," said Slowpay at table.

been made or them in the past few years are simply amazing. The forms of many are surprisingly like that which has been described above as characterizing the stellar system. They have central agglomerations with enveloping spirals. They have knots of light which recall the globular clusters of stars found in the visible universe, but they are so distant that no separate stars can be detected in them.

They look like masses of more or less condensed glowing gas, but the spectroscopic shows that the light coming from them is not that which is characteristic of gaseous nebulae, but that which belongs to true stars. The inference is that these wonderful objects may actually be other universes lying out in the ocean of space beyond our shores.

This inference is strengthened by what we know of the distance of some of these objects. The utmost diameter of the great spiral of the Milky way probably does not exceed from 4,000 to 6,000 "parsecs," or from 800 to 1,200 million times the earth's distance from the sun. A parsec, which corresponds to a parallax of one second of arc, equals about 19,000,000,000,000 (nineteen trillion) miles. But some of the spiral nebulae appear to be at least 10,000 parsecs distant.

If that is so there exists between them and the outer frontiers of the visible universe a gap far broader than the entire diameter of that universe. It can hardly be supposed, then, that they are outlying parts of or attendants upon our universe, but it is much more reasonable to conclude that they are other universes constructed on a similar plan, but so far away that as viewed with our utmost visual powers, our mightiest telescopes, they are but gleaming specks! Perhaps the nearest of these strange objects is the Andromeda nebula, which, in a small telescope, looks like a faint spindle shaped wisp.—Garrett P. Serviss in New York Journal.

Vengeance on the Caddie.

"What! Buying more golf clubs? I thought you had a pretty complete outfit before."

"I have, but that caddie of mine had the nerve to snigger when I topped my drive yesterday, and I'm going to make him carry double weight."—Pall Mall Gazette.

Happiness.

Happiness is that single and glorious thing which is the very light and sum of the whole animated universe, and where she is not it is better that nothing should be.—Colton.

The most completely lost of all days is the one on which we have not laughed.—Chamfort.

Restrained.

"What is a temporary injunction, pa?" asked little Richard, looking up from the newspaper he was reading.

"I'll give you a concrete example of it, my son," replied his father. "Your mother told me this evening that she didn't want me to go to the club. That is a temporary injunction."

"I see, but supposin' you go anyhow, what would that be?"

A good instance of this power appears in a description of Patti's singing: "There was a great dim pressure, a stifling heat, a whispering of silks, a weight of toilet perfumes. Then came an awful hush. All the silks stopped whispering. And then suddenly sweetened out through that dead, hot air a clear, cool, tense thread gust of melody unlike any sound I ever heard before save—in tropical nights—from the throat of a mocking bird. It was 'Auld Lang Syne' only, but with never a tremolo or artifice, a marvelous, audacious simplicity of utterance."

When Baronets Were Bold.

It was in the reign of good King James that baronets first came into existence. Today you could hardly tell a baronet from a banker. But in the year 1611, when James I. needed ready money and created 200 "little barons" to supply him with cash, they swaggered about in their baldrics and sashes and behaved in the courtliest of fashion. Each baronet in order to justify his title had to maintain a small army of thirty soldiers for three years. In this way the crafty king not only increased his revenue, but actually lightened his expenses.—London Telegraph.

The Dwarf Palm of Algeria.

The dwarf palm, which furnishes considerable quantities of fiber, grows in great profusion in Algeria and is one of the principal obstacles to the clearing of the land, so thickly does it grow and so difficult is it to pull up. Its roots, in shape resembling carrots, penetrate into the ground to the depth of a yard or more, and when its stem only is cut it sprouts out again almost immediately. As its name indicates, this palm is very small and can only attain a certain height when protected, as in the Arab cemeteries, for example.

DISASTERS RUN IN SERIES.

Long Periods of Security Lead to a Relaxation of Vigilance.

The careful observer long ago noted that disasters run in series and that intervals of considerable length frequently occur between the series.
Thus three or four railway smashups happen within a few days, to be followed by several months in which not a jar is recorded. Or several cities are within a few days visited by big fires,
after which there usually lapses a long period in which only minor fires are recorded.

Why this peculiar condition should exist is puzzling only to those who do not seek the reason in their own habits and experiences. The individual who will keep close watch on himself will discover that he performs his duties accurately and well for long periods, followed by short seasons when blunders are frequent and exasperat-ing. This is due to a sense of security created by the long period of accuracy,
leading to a relaxation of vigilance.
The instant tension is relaxed and duty is performed automatically rather than
with concentrated intelligence blunders multiply.

So when railroad men go long periods without disasters there is somewhere along the line a relaxation productive of trouble. Fires break out because vigilance lets down from a sense of security.

The lesson is, of course, almost too obvious to require statement. Don't be lulled by long stretches of perfect work or security into thinking you never can err, never can be plunged
by a mismove into danger.

THE MOUNTAIN SPOKE.

How an Old Yankee Woman Told of the Coming of a Storm.

I once knew an old woman who lived under the shadow of the White mountains and whose instinct for weather changes was almost uncanny. She did not have barometrical bones either, as so many old people maintain they have.
Her deductions were all based on observation.

Once, I recall, she was taking in some clothes from the line at 10 o'clock at night—a still, starlit night without a cloud. I saw her shadow bobbing about huge and fantastic on the barn wall, thrown from the lantern she carried in her left hand, and went out to ask her why she took the clothes in.

"There wa'n't a cloud in the sky all day," she said, "and tonight the mountain's talkin'."

I listened carefully, and, sure enough,
in the silence I could hear, 3,000 feet above us, the steady rush of wind through the stunted spruce forest at timber line. Up there the wind was roaring then!

I thought of Martineau's words, that the noisy hurricane rushes silently
through the upper spaces where there is nothing to oppose it—that force by itself is silent. There seemed to me something almost Celtic, too, in this old Yankee's woman's imagery. And her prediction proved correct. The next day came a deluge.—Walter Pritchard

How Margarine is Made.

Oleomargarine when first introduced in England was called "bosh." As this name repelled business, it was changed to "margarine," a word derived from the freak word for a pearl, because of the pearly appearance of margarine acid.

There has been a great improvement in its manufacture in recent years, so great that the London Lancet says "the product of the present day is a triumph of the art of the refined blending of various fats, vegetable and animal, with milk." It was originally made from the fluid part of beef fat with a trifling proportion of vegetable oil. Today some of its forms contain nothing but nut oils blended with pasteurized skim milk. These are perfectly wholesome.

Once when Sarah Bernhardt was acting in Italy the audience was rather unfriendly, owing to the fact that the prices of the seats had been considerably increased.

The maid left the theater, but speedily returned, and just before her mistress went on the stage again she banded her something as she stood in the wings. The scene progressed. "The Divine Sarah" seemed hoarse. She tried to clear her throat, passed her handkerchief across her mouth, and suddenly a stream of blood poured from her lips, and she fell into the arms of the actor with whom she was playing.

The curtain was promptly rung down, and the audience waited breathlessly to hear the worst. All their previous vexation was turned to sympathy, and when it was announced that the great actress would shortly resume her part rather than disappoint them the cheering was deafening. WASTE AND WASTED LAND.

Unnecessary Fences, Lanes and Roads Should Be Eliminated.

Students of agriculture have demonstrated that the size of the business is one of the most important elements in determining the profit in farming. Many farms now too small to secure to their operators the maximum returns might be materially increased in size by the elimination of waste and wasted land.

In a new publication of the United States department of agriculture, Farmers' Bulletin 745, wasted land is defined as areas unnecessarily taken up by farm buildings, lanes, roads, fences, ditches, turning spaces, etc. Waste land consists of areas rendered unutilizable by swamps, rocks, ravines, slopes, sloughs, streams, etc., of woodland which does not yield salable products and of pasture land that is too poor to make its use economical. Any fully considered. On the other hand, much land that is now used for pasture is so poor that it would be more economical to devote it to the production of timber. Whether or not pasture land is economical may be determined by ascertaining the number of acres necessary to support one head of stock and by comparing the interest on the value of this land with the current charges for pasturing stock. Another method is to compare with the interest on the value of the land the increased value of the stock which it carries or of the products of the stock.

If land cannot be profitably used for the production of crops, the economic pasturing of animals or for the production of marketable forest products, it should not be included at all in estimating the value of a farm. To one who is about to buy or lease land the important question is not "How large a tract am I getting?" but "How many productive acres are to work for me?" In the bulletin already mentioned it is estimated that a hundred acre farm selling for $100 an acre actually costs the purchaser $111.11 if ninety acres are productive, but, if only forty of them are, then the cost is $250 an acre. It is not always the farm that costs the least per acre that is the most economical to buy or operate.

THE ALFALFA WEB WORM.

Renovation of Fields Will Help Keep Them in Check.

The alfalfa web worm has appeared in large numbers in many Kansas alfalfa fields. Another brood of these worms will hatch before winter, and farmers should wage war on them or serious damage will be done.

"Farmers should watch for the next breed of worms and take immediate action," says T. H. Parks, specialist in entomology, division of extension, Kansas State Agricultural college. "The crop should be cut for hay immediately should the worms appear in large numbers. This will compel them to feed on the shoots near the ground, where they should be killed by means of a barrow made of brush or by the use of a smoothing harrow, into the middle of which a piece of old wire fence has been woven. This will crush many of the worms if used after the hay crop is removed.

"The worms injure the alfalfa by tying the tops together by means of a web and devouring the foliage. They ruin the quality of the hay in a short time. There are four or five generations each year, but they rarely become numerous enough to injure the crop until late summer.

"The moths are small and buff colored and rise in large numbers as one walks through the alfalfa. They fly a short distance only.

"The worms feed on a number of weeds. Winter is passed in their pupal cell one inch below the surface of the ground. Renovation of alfalfa fields will help to keep them in check."

ON SEED CORN.

Seed corn that does not germinate 90 per cent or better is not fit to be planted for the production of ears. Germination is the one factor that regulates the value of seed corn of any class or variety. Even fodder corn seed ought to have a high germination testing power. A false impression prevails that fodder corn does not need to have a high germination record, like ear corn seed.

Killing frost on standing corn is almost sure to impair the germination of the seed. It is better to cut too early than too late. If cut and shocked when about 90 per cent of the ears are just well denting the kernels will fill out properly in the shock and the germinating power will be preserved. A killing frost while the corn is standing may almost destroy the germinating power. The injury will be relatively larger as the crop is less mature.

—C. P. Bull, University Farm, St. Paul.

THE GRAPE LEAF HOPPER.

Its Presence Often Accounts For Poor Yields in the Vineyard.

Poor yields of grapes may in many cases be attributed to the presence of the grape leaf hopper, a small insect which is found commonly on grapevines and which pierces the grape leaves, sucks the juice and causes them to curl and wither, often ruining the crop. So says F. S. Kerrill, assistant in horticulture in the Kansas State Agricultural college.

The vineyards at the college have been badly infested for the last few years. This year a special effort has been made to get rid of the insect and obtain a good crop. That the efforts have been successful is attested by the fact that one of the best crops the college has ever had is now maturing, and in a short time harvesting will begin.

To control the insect the vines were carefully pruned in the spring and part of the plots fertilized with barnyard manure, which was disked in. The plants were then sprayed with "Black Leaf 40," a concentrated solution of nicotine sulphate, containing not less than 40 per cent of nicotine by weight. This concentrated solution was diluted until the nicotine was of about 20 per cent strength. This spray was combined with bordeaux mixture.

The first spray was applied when about 75 per cent of the hoppers were in the nymph stage. The second spray was applied ten days later. This destroyed those which escaped the first spray and also those which had developed during the interval between the two sprays.

LEGEND OF LONG GON

Strange Thing That Happened to a Good Natured Farmer and His Fairies Show Gratitude For Act—Things of Interest to

Tonight, said Uncle Ben Ned and Polly Ann, I am going to tell you about the

LITTLE HILL MEN

In the district of Erslev sta farm which is known all country as the "Mound Garden" some would say, "Hill Garden" this is why it is so named.

Near the farm is a beautiful mound or hill in which dwelt little Bergmen or Hill people. When the farmhouse was built the farmer, wanted for his some fresh green sod. So, go Mound, he carefully cut it sward from it and carried it to the farm yard.

In the evening Jon's wife went to the kitchen to light and prepare supper, but to her surprise she could not enter.

"This is very strange!" she said. "The place seems crowded. I can't get in."

Thyra began to feel frightened and called loudly for her husband. "Jon, Jon, come quick; I can't get into our own kitchen!"

Jon came at once. "You are out of your mind," he said. "I don't see a light."

"I cannot get near the kitchen," answered Thyra.

"I'll go and do it," announced the farmer.

But, lo, when Jon tried to enter the kitchen he found it so crowded he could not enter either, so he stood outside.

"Who is here? Who is here up in my kitchen?" he demanded. Immediately there was a chorus of replies.

"We others, we others, we others, the Mound!"

"And what do you want in my kitchen?" cried Jon.

"You have taken the room from us; all the greensward has been taken away; so 'we others' have your kitchen!" was the reply.

"I did not know it was yours," said Jon.

LARGE AREA OF LAND WASTED BY A MEANDERING BROOK—CONFINING THIS TO A STRAIGHT DITCH WOULD ADD A CONSIDERABLE AREA OF TILLABLE LAND.

portion of a farm that may fall into either one of these two divisions adds nothing to the income of the operator and represents nothing but dead capital.

For the farmer, therefore, who desires to increase his business an obvious means is to do away with all unnecessary fences and lanes and roads. The bulletin already mentioned contains a table showing the amount of land occupied by fences of different types. According to this table, it requires only 200 rods of untrimmed hedge to use up an acre of farm land; with a zigzag rail or worm fence 214 types. According to this table, it requires only 200 rods of untrimmed hedge to use up an acre of farm land; with a zigzag rail or worm fence 214 rods are needed, but 473 rods of barbed wire can be set up for the same expenditure of land. As for lanes, these may frequently be eliminated by a rearrangement of the fields.

Of the waste land on farms many areas can be profitably reclaimed. That this is not done is often due to ignorance of the proper methods and often to a belief that it would not pay. Bulletin 745 contains a list of publications of the federal department and of experiment stations which deal with problems of clearing and draining. The advisability of such action may be determined by comparing the probable cost with the price of good arable land in the vicinity.

Another way in which land is frequently wasted is by devoting it to the wrong use. For example, a wood lot is ordinarily classed as productive, but on expensive fertile land it may represent a loss in the earning capacity of the farmer. If the cleared land should be tillable and if the wood lot brings in little but a supply of firewood for home consumption it may be advisable to clear it. Before this is done, however, the cost of clearing, the salable value of the timber products, interest on the investment, the prospective increased farm value of the cleared land and the annual value of the firewood that is to be sacrificed must be carefully considered. The fall crop of lettuce has assumed considerable importance in New Jersey in recent years. Hundreds of thousands of hampers, crates and barrels are grown each autumn. Most of the late lettuce crop is being grown by market gardeners on soil which has already produced two or three other crops this season.

In cool weather lettuce will stand a long while after the head is formed before it will bolt to seed. Therefore growers find it best to study the condition of their growing crop, the weather, the marketing supply and demand. Severe frosts or light freezing may "tip burn" the outer leaves and impair the appearance of the product. The market gardening departments of the New Jersey station recommends that salt may be sprinkled over the lettuce fields when cold weather threatens, as this smother material will not rot or tear the tender lettuce leaves.

Many gardeners have on hand large quantities of straw or burlap mats. These may be used to protect a limited area, provided they are supported just above the plants. Some growers protect several acres from freezing by rolling out wide strips of muslin over frames made of single laths. Any kind of bags may be laid over lettuce to advantage. They should not be dirty with fertilizer, for this injures the leaves.

Green Manuring Improves Soil.

The gardener whose soil is too poor to grow first class crops can improve it wonderfully at small expense by sowing rye, crimson clover or vetch as fast as the different vegetables are harvested, plowing in these cover crops when spring comes. Not only will they enrich the ground, but they will also make it much easier to work next season. Farmers call this green manuring.

Value of Poultry.

There is no kind of live stock kept on farms that responds more liberally to good care than poultry, yet it is a fact well known that fowls receive less care and attention than any other class of live stock. Perhaps it is because the value of fowls is not known, or it may be that farmers do not know how to manage poultry. Suffice it to say that more attention should be given to fowls on the farm.

Opened the King's Eyes.

When Fenelon was almoner to Louis XIV. his majesty was astonished to find one Sunday, instead of the usual crowded congregation, only himself and the priest. "What is the meaning of this?" said the king. "I caused it to be given out," replied the prelate, "that your majesty did not attend chapel today, that you might see who it was that came here to worship God and who to flatter the king."

Improvements.

"Now that you have leisure you can improve your mind."

"I suppose so," replied Dustin Stax. "But a good mind is sometimes like a good piece of property. Overanxiety to improve it may spoil it."

lar 29, Cornell department of entomology, shows a handy device for providing the hens' dust bath in winter or at other times when their wallowing places are too wet to work well. The dust is an insecticide, controlling lice and mites, and, judging from their actions, the hens also enjoy the dust bathing, doing it when they have the facilities whether there is any vermin around or not. Dry sandy loam or any soil lightened with sifted coal ashes is suitable, and a little sulphur and air slaked lime may be added.

BITS OF POULTRY WISDOM.

When four months old chickens should be required to occupy their permanent laying and roosting room, so they may become thoroughly attached to it, that their beginning to lay may thus not be postponed by reason of being placed in strange quarters.

Do not keep too many cockerels. They will consume the feed that the hens need and keep up a disturbance among the fowls. Cull out the male birds that are not needed and dispose of them. One cock to eight or ten hens is enough to insure fertile eggs during the breeding season.

If the work of depluming mites becomes evident mix one part kerosene to ten of lard and rub well into the desh and roots of the feathers where they seem to be falling out. Repeat twice a week until the mites are entirely killed. Be generous with fresh air and water and sunshine.

Fowls like a combination of grain, and to keep their appetites keen it will be advisable to mix the grain. Equal parts by weight of corn, wheat and oats make a good combination.

It is a good plan to feed laying hens about one-third of their daily rations in the form of a mash. Equal parts of corn chops, wheat shorts and cottonseed meal is a good mash to feed occasionally.

Serge Frocks.

The separate frock of navy serge will not lose any of its popularity. It is to be found mostly in princess styles or made on lines that give the shoulder to-hem effect. Jumper frocks of serge to be worn with separate blouses of georgette crape are very handsome. One buttons down the back with black bone buttons. It has a guimpe of terra cotta georgette crape, and stiff flaps extend outward over the hips, heavily embroidered with terra cotta silk. The corselet effect is gained by pointed yokes on these serge frocks which point upward on the blouse and downward on the full circular skirt.

THE NEWEST REMEDY FOR Backache, Rheumatism and Dropsy.

Kidney, Bladder and Uric Acid troubles bring misery to many. When the kidneys are weak or diseased, these natural filters do not cleanse the blood sufficiently, and the poisons are carried to all parts of the body. There follow depression, aches and pains, heaviness, drowsiness, irritability, headaches, chilliness and rheumatism. In some people there are sharp pains in the back and loins, distressing bladder disorders and sometimes obstinate dropsy. The uric acid sometimes forms into gravel or kidney stones. When the uric acid affects the muscles and joints, it causes lumbago, rheumatism, gout or sciatica. This is the time to try "Anuric." Send 10c. for trial package. During digestion uric acid is absorbed into the system from meat eaten, and even from some vegetables. The poor kidneys get tired and backache begins. This is a good time to take "Anuric," the new discovery of Dr. Pierce for Kidney trouble and Backache. Neglected kidney trouble is responsible for many deaths, and Insurance Company examining doctors always test the water of an applicant before a policy will be issued. Have you ever set aside a bottle of water for twenty-four hours? A heavy sediment or settling sometimes indicates kidney trouble. The true nature and character of diseases, especially those of the kidneys and urinary organs, can often be determined by a careful chemical analysis and microscopical examination—this is done by expert chemists of the Medical Staff of the Invalids' Hotel. If you wish to know your condition send a sample of your water to Doctor Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., and describe your symptoms. It will be examined without any expense to you, and Doctor Pierce or his Staff of Assisting Physicians will inform you truthfully.

KNOW THYSELF!

Read all about yourself, your system, physiology, anatomy, hygiene, simple home cures, etc., in the "Common Sense Medical Adviser," a book of 1008 pages. Send to Dr. V. M. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., 50 cents in one-cent stamps for a cloth-bound copy. Customs prepaid.

we have come to your kitchen to keep

"Very well," replied Jon; "stay where you are until the rain is over and tomorrow I'll put back every bit of sod
I took away. I am sorry I have given you so much trouble."

So the farmer and his wife allowed
"the others" to remain in the comfortable kitchen, and next morning when the rain had ceased to fall Jon carried back all the grassy sods and replaced them carefully on the Mound.

Back to it then trooped all the Berg-
men or Hill people, and from that day Jon prospered and nothing ever went amiss on the farm. He had the richest fields of grain, the finest crops in the countryside, for, of course, having gained the friendship of the Bergmen, they were always working for him and aiding him in every way they could possibly devise. So no wonder Jon and Thyra prospered in everything they undertook.—Philadelphia Record.

STAFF OF LIFE.

How to Make Use of All Stale
Breads and Crumbs.

TIPS FOR MRS. NEWLYWED.

With Food Prices Rising and High Cost of Living a Permanent Problem, Ways of Turning Crusts Into Palatable Dishes Are Worth Heeding

Of all the leftover remnants of food
from the kitchen bread is the most common perhaps, and many pieces are daily thrown away which a little thought would turn to excellent use.
If the leftover pieces are not utilized
the same day an excellent plan is to wrap them in pieces of waxed paper and store them in a stone jar. They will keep well for a week in this way.

Dried crumbs for stuffing and meat
frying: Put the crusts and small pieces
in a baking pan and dry in the oven without burning. They may then be put through the food chopper and stored in clean glass jars until wanted.
They may be used as a basis for meat croquettes, poultry stuffing and other things.

French toast may be made from the whole slices of leftover bread. It is an excellent luncheon pickup dish. Beat an egg and add a little milk. Dip the slices of bread in this and fry a nice brown in hot drippings. Serve with butter, jelly or marmalade.

Bread custard pudding: Cut the bread

in dainty shapes and butter liberally.
Make a plain custard of eggs, milk and sugar. Put in baking dish and float the buttered bread on top. Sprinkle with grated nutmeg and bake in a quick oven until brown. This is excellent.

To make croutons for the various soups so much relished in summer cut the bread in cubes and fry in butter or dripping just before serving with the soup. Add five or six to each plate of soup. These are delicious with almost any soup.

Bread jelly for invalids: Scald the stale bread freed from crusts. Mash to a paste until of mushlike consistency. Add a little sugar and flavoring.
mold, chill and serve with cream.

Sterilized breadcrumbs are especially valuable for the young children in the household. A jar should be kept filled with these. They may be heated when wanted and sprinkled in soft eggs,
soups, milk, fruit juices and indeed
anything eaten by very young children where fresh bread is often actually dangerous.

Dried bread is also valuable for mixing with various other foods for feeding the household pets.

Drying an Umbrella.

An umbrella should never be opened in order to dry it, as the ribs get sprung, and it will never roll up neatly and tightly after once dried in this manner. Doing this will also spoil the cover by straining the weave unnatu-rally. The correct way to dry an umbrella is to stand it on the handle that the water may run off at the points instead of gathering at the ferrule and thus rotting the material.

Mr. Jas. Gordon has just received a number of Mr. Albert Close's new book "The Divine Programme of the World's History," and will have them for sale. This talented young author has evidently given very much careful study on this subject in hand, and the books will well repay a careful reading. 47c

The New York Chinese Restaurant which now occupy the premises opposite the Campbell House are going to move into the store located between Paul's bookstore and the Robinson Co's. store. The building is being entirely overhauled and repaired. They expect to move into their new quarters about December 1st. 49-d

The 146th Battalion has established a record in the matter of sending troops to the firing line in France. Three weeks from the time that the unit arrived in England a draft was chosen and despatched to the front. All the non-commissioned officers were attached to the instructional staff, while B. S. M. "Jack" Edwards was appointed brigade sergt.-major and placed in charge of instruction of the First Canadian Training Brigade. A number of the men who went to the front were recruited in Napanee.

From week to week questions political and otherwise, of the utmost importance to the farmer are coming to the front. These questions are in many instances permitted to pass without comment by some newspapers for political reasons. That old and reliable friend of the farmer, The Weekly Sun, does not allow any questions affecting the farmer or his family to pass without comment. You may not always agree with its opinion, but the Sun being free from party or political control, gives its readers an unbiased opinion on all questions. These opinions are always worth reading, while the Sun's market reports have long been considered most reliable from the farmer's standpoint. Are you reading this exponent of your interests? If not, you are missing many good things each week. You will find the Sun instructive and profitable reading. 49-a

CIGARETTES SPOIL BOYS FOR HIS BUSINESS.

George W. Aldwin, head of a big mercantile establishment, Brockton, Mass. Here are his views on the efficiency and desirability of the cigarette smoking boy: "so far as I know none of my employees smoke cigarettes. We don't hire that kind of boys or men. I should not consider for a minute any candidate for a position if I knew he smoked cigarettes. With the general knowledge prevalent in this State as to the injurious effects of cigarette smoking, any boy should have ambition enough and decision enough to let cigarettes alone. My observations have taught me that cigarette smoking boys are woefully lacking in both ambition and decision. They soon become dull smoke-befuddled boys.

Protection From Lightning.

Sir Oliver Lodge stated that the problem of securing protection from lightning consisted in finding the best method of dissipating the enormous energy of the flash, but that it was not wise to get rid of the energy too quickly. A thin iron wire is considered the best lightning conductor from the electrical point of view, but it is almost impossible to protect a building from lightning unless it is completely enveloped in a metal cage. It is by no means true that a building is safe when provided with a conductor reaching up to the highest part of the building.

A MILD REBUKE

To The Napanee Express:—

Dear Editor—Just a few lines in regard to the soldiers' wives of Napanee. In the first place, why is every one so down on a soldier's wife? Do people ever stop and think of the lonely life a soldier's wife lives. I think a soldier's wife is well deserving of all the money she gets. And again, if a soldier's wife should talk or speak to anyone on the street you can hear it for months after. Now, I am a soldier's wife, and believe in always minding my own business, and I think the people around Napanee should be made to do the same. I am proud of my husband to think he is no coward. Put really I am ashamed to think I am a soldier's wife. I have heard the remark passed that the soldier's wives need watching. But take a little tip and watch the ones who are saying, watch the soldier's wives. I will be very glad if anyone is so kind as to watch me. But thank goodness I am quite capable of taking care of myself. I think the people of Napanee should be more civilized than to run down a soldier's wife. I would sooner be a bigger than a soldier's wife, if they are to be talked about over nothing.

I think a soldier's wife should talk to whom she likes, or walk with who she likes, as long as her own husband knows all about it, and don't carry things too far.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your space, I remain a good soldier's wife
and one who can take her own part.

MRS. M. H.
